The design brief for this stable of prestigious luxury brands include Cartier, Chloé, Montblanc, Piaget and Dunhill called for a workspace supported by a highly secure after-sales service centre for each of Richemont's luxury brands over three floors of the building.

Gray Puksand's design includes a reception area on Level 8, specialist labs dedicated to servicing fine watches, precious jewellery and luxury accessories on Level 9, and meeting rooms and offices for each brand on Level 12. Each 300sqm level required careful planning to ensure that the many rooms were set up to facilitate the receipt, servicing and dispatch of goods.

The design team also liaised with Richemont's security adviser to ensure that multiple layers of security systems were thoroughly integrated into the project.

The refurbished workspace is imbued with a sense of warm elegance and attention to detail befitting of the global company and its international standing as a supplier of luxury goods.
